INTER-CLASS SCHEDULE IS COMPLETED

Keen Interest Shown Among Classes.

MEETING OF REPS.

Will Discuss Hours of Practices and Games.

This afternoon the Class Hockey Representatives will meet at the Union at 5.15 p.m. to discuss plans for the coming season. It is most important that every class which intends to enter a team should be represented. Any class which is not represented will be considered as not intending to compete. If the regular representative cannot be present, a delegate should be sent to act for him.

The Hockey Club, through the kind offices of Dr. A. S. Lamb have arranged that all skating shall be carried out on the Women's Rink. This leaves the other rink free for hockey except for three hours. This arrangement depends on the R.V.C. being unmolested during their periods of practice. It must be clearly understood that the use of the second rink for the social skating is a courtesy, and every student should govern himself accordingly, as otherwise he may by a thoughtless attempt at humor hinder the progress of hockey and cause the year and others to lose their opportunity to practice.

A schedule has been drawn up and practice hours arranged. The Hockey Club representatives will submit this to the class delegates for their approval. It is extremely difficult to rearrange practice hours, but every one will be assured, of at least one hour which will not conflict with lectures. As far as possible a second hour will be allotted, but there are a number of early hours which will be also available. As only a few practices will take place before some teams have been eliminated, every effort should be made to utilize hours, and then readjustments can be made.

It is intended to eliminate within the faculties, and to hold a single series amongst the winning teams from each faculty, the award to be on points. (Win, 2; draw, 1). This will match the best players from different faculties against each other and show up prospective intercollegiate material to advantage. Officials from neutral faculties will be provided for all games, which will be run off in quick succession, so as to be over by the first week in February, the finals taking place in the first ten days of that month. Thus it will be possible to select and pit against each other, if it is desired, teams composed of the best players of each faculty, irrespective of year, before the ice melts. Any suggestions would be very welcome, and those interested can communicate with their class representatives before the meeting to-night.

It must be borne in mind that the regulation concerning Physical Examination will be rigidly enforced without any hesitation. Any year which plays a man who has not been previously examined as laid down will forfeit that match. It will be up to the class representatives to safeguard their year in its race for honors. This is the result of a recent decision of the Athletic Association and no appeal will be possible.

Schedules and hours of practice will be published as soon as they have been finally settled and approved by the Hockey Club.

FENCERS OUT LAST EVENING

"Pool" Is Still Open For Live Competitors.

A full complement of fencers turned out last night to a practice in the basement of the Union, and delighted Mr. Raimondi with their enthusiasm.

Members are reminded that Mr. Raimondi is forming a pool to include all Montreal fencers, and that it is still open for further entries. For this, much practice is not an essential, since it will involve the simplest epee fighting, and members are urged to join if for no other reason than for the practice they will be afforded. The fee is $5.

The next practice of the club will be held Thursday at 5.15 p.m., in the Union.

STUDENTS WILL ELECT COUNCIL TO-MORROW

Everyone Is Urged To Participate.

QUESTION TIME.

Opportunity For Candidates To Present Their Platforms.

In connection with the impending elections of the Faculty Representatives to the Students' Council, the "Daily" has thought it advisable to give the respective candidates an opportunity of making known the "platforms" to which they stand committed. With this purpose in view, facilities will be extended to every candidate to submit answers to the following questionnaire, which will be published in to-morrow's "Daily":

Name
Age
Prep. School:
Business experience (if any)
Activities at McGill
Any other information which the candidate wishes to mention.....
In this way the merits of those standing for these important offices will be brought under the notice of their constituents. As the elections are scheduled to take place to-morrow, it is imperative that these platforms should be in our hands to-night at 10 o'clock at latest, and the "Daily" can in no way assume liability for the non-appearance of any candidate's statement.

It would almost seem to be unnecessary to point out the importance of to-morrow's elections. The men elected will hold office until December next, and during their tenure will exert a direct influence on the policy of the Students' Council, and therefore of the University in general. With this fact in mind, every student is urged to exercise his suffrage with due regard to the merits of the respective candidates and not merely according to any blind spirit of partisanship or personal prejudice.

In former years Student Council elections have been productive of much energetic "electioneering," and the result has undoubtedly been to place in office those who were best fitted for the position. It is to be hoped that to-morrow's election will be marked with no less interest and enthusiasm, and that the successful candidates, who will commence their duties on the 1st of January, will prove able successors to the retiring representatives.

"TRIP TO BORDEAUX" CANCELLED.

Due to the fact that to-day is a holiday for the prisoners of the group which was to go to Bordeaux Jail this afternoon has been cancelled until next week. All those who signed up to go to-day will be given the preference on Wednesday, Dec. 15th.

"FROM WHEAT TO FLOUR," BY ROBT. NEILSON

Secy. of Lake of the Woods Milling Co.

SAMPLES SHOWN.

Mr. Neilson Appreciates Plan of Bringing Students and Business Men Together.

The Commercial Society last evening was treated to a most instructive and interesting talk on flour production from wheat to household. Mr. Robert Neilson, secretary of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co., is highly qualified to talk of flour milling, having, as one would judge from some of his remarks, worked at the business in all its varied details at odd times in his forty years' experience.

He told how pleased he was to come and meet the Commerce Society for the first time, and what a good idea it was for the men to learn something of the outside workings of business from a business man.

The talk dealt entirely with Canadian products. Canadian wheat, grown by Canadians and milled and consumed partly by Canadians. The majority of the wheat used is Western wheat, sown in the spring and garnered in from one hundred to one hundred and twenty days from seeding. The West this year produced 250,000,000 bushels of wheat. The bushel of wheat is a measure of 60 pounds.

The wheat is reaped, threshed and sent to the elevators where it is graded according to Government standards. These standards are set yearly by the Government. There is a constant stream of wheat coming east by rail and water, which is tested on its way and reports sent to the mills to which it is consigned.

After reaching the mill it is graded according to strength, i.e., the amount of gluten contained, and mixed to ensure a standard grade of flour, and put through the first process of polishing. There the chaff and impurities are removed and it goes through the first break. The flour particles that fall out are the first middlings, the hard shelly parts go on to a second break, when the second middlings are removed. Bits of bran are removed at each break.

Most flour is made from spring wheat, of the Marquis variety, a new harder variety than Red Fife. This wheat was scientifically produced by Dr. Saunders at Ottawa. This wheat is worth millions of dollars yearly to Canada.

This wheat makes a very high grade of flour. Pastry flour, so-called, is made of winter wheat, that is wheat sown the preceding fall and kept in the ground over the winter. It has a large proportion of starch and not so much gluten, rendering the flour easier to work into the proper consistency.

The great mills at Keewatin are run by water power supplied by the Lake of the Woods and dammed back by a seventy-five mile dam. The Lake of the Woods Milling Co. has other mills run by steam and natural gas. The remarkable thing about milling is the few men required in the process. Most of these are at work bagging, shipping and cleaning up. The latter operation is very necessary to prevent dust explosions.

"WOOD" CUP TO GO TO A.C.L. MEN

Have Played Good Rugby Throughout Season.

At a meeting of the Football executive, it was decided that although the schedule was not finished, that the Wood Cup for the inter-class Rugby should go to the combined team of Arts, Law and Commerce, they being ahead at the end of the season.

This team, which has given some good exhibitions of Rugby, has put up a determined effort for this championship, and all will remember the exciting games which they played on the campus not so many weeks ago.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1920.

MACDONALD COLLEGE

The "Daily" wishes to call attention to two articles, one of Nov. 30th and the other of Dec. 2nd, referring to the visit of the McGill Mandolin Club to Macdonald College, on the evening of December 1st.

These articles were brought to the "Daily" office by a member of the club, who is in no way connected with the paper, and were accepted by the news editor in charge, who was under the impression that they were merely accounts of the club's trip to St. Anne de Bellevue.

The sentiments and tenor of the articles in no way reflect the attitude of the "Daily," the Students' Council nor the Students' Society of McGill, all of which organizations are proud of the part which Macdonald College takes in McGill University.

The tone of the news items is one of ridicule and as the students of McGill have nothing but respect and admiration for the St. Anne's college and its undergraduates the published sentiments are entirely inconsistent with those prevailing at McGill.

The "McGill Daily" and the Students' Council hope that the most amicable relations will continue to exist between Macdonald College and the rest of McGill University.

INTER-CLASS HOCKEY

"An inter-class series has been arranged." Do we realize the proper importance of this announcement? Past experience says "No." There is a wealth of good hockey material in the university, but it is altogether too modest. Yet it must come to the fore if McGill is to continue in amateur hockey with any prospect of success.

The Department of Physical Education and the Hockey Club have succeeded in having one rink practically devoted to hockey, while social skating will be transferred to the second rink. Hours have been arranged for every class so that they can attend one practice a week without loss in attendance, and in the majority of cases a second hour can be allotted. This has been possible because of the sympathetic co-operation of the R. V. C. and its continuance will be dependent on the gentlemanly conduct of the male students, which we trust can be readily vouched for. Failure to observe the common rules of courtesy, however, will result in the privilege being rescinded, and this will deal a severe blow to hockey.

It is intended to have all games over in the first week of February. There will be eliminations in each Faculty followed by a single series for the winners on the basis of points so that bad luck will not put a Faculty out of the running in the first game. This will pit the best players of each Faculty against the winners from every other Faculty, thus providing a fair standard of comparison between individual players and maintaining a keen interest. If an all-star Inter-Faculty series is desirable it will still be possible to arrange it, and selection will be thus facilitated.

QUIPUZCOA LOSES TO PARIS ELEVEN.

An Association football match, which possessed a decidedly international flavor, was that which took place recently at the Parc des Princes, between representative teams of Paris and Quipuzcoa, Spain. The Spaniards, who lost by 1 goal to 5, played a wonderfully fast and clever game, although the shooting of their forwards left much to be desired. The game opened in a brisk fashion, and the first half was but ten minutes old when Mattias, the Spanish inside left, whipped in a scoring shot after a smart run up the wing by his partner, Jauregui. The next incident of note was the award of a free kick to the Frenchmen, as a result of Elizaguirre, the Spanish custodian, having taken more than the allotted number of steps with the ball in his hands. There was some slight but heated discussion over this decision of the referee, as the men of Quipuzcoa pleaded ignorance of the rule. The kick was taken by Gambin, and although a splendid effort, would not have counted as a goal had not Elizaguirre touched the ball in an attempt to save. Close after this incident followed a penalty kick against the Spaniards, and after Gambin had again found the net, Paris held a lead of 2 to 1 at half time. On the resumption of play, Bard performed a good individual run. This he brought to a fitting conclusion with a fast shot which Elizaguirre fumbled inside the posts. Following further bright football, the whistle shrilled for cessation, and the Parisians ran out winners by 3 goals to 1. Both the French and Spanish fullbacks played a masterly game, although the goal keeping was hardly deserving of equal praise. The French halfbacks were, if anything, inferior to their opponents' intermediate line, while the "star" performers were undoubtedly the Parisian forwards.

"JUDGE" MACDOUGALL.

Great Number of Witnesses Furnished Amusing Evidence.

A large crowd witnessed the Mock Trial at the Union last night. The case was that of Calla Lecker vs. George Younger, before Mr. G. W. Macdougall, K.C., who acted as judge. The Counsel for the Plaintiff were Biggar and Ryan, while those of the Defendant were O'Halloran and Harold. The jury were as follows: — Kavanagh (foreman), Nicholson, Hague, Bray, Foster, Benson, Hotham, Ritchie, Simard, Genest, Sauvage and Marler. Chisholm, who was originally a member of the jury, was not included as he had been condemned to St. Vincent de Paul for five years. Ahearn was objected to by Wilson because the former had been arrested for being intoxicated, and was therefore excused from being a jurymen. Barre then asked excuse because he was prejudiced, owing a Ford car. His excuse was accepted and he withdrew. Harold then objected to Jurymen Wilson for drinking tea with a fair damsel from the R.V.C. contrary to the statutes of the Law Faculty; he, too, was excused. Thus the jury-men given above were sworn in.

The case was then opened by Biggar, counsel for the Plaintiff, who stated that the action was for damages received by the plaintiff and the plaintiff's car, when it was struck at 2 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 19th, on Notre Dame Street East, near First Avenue. The car, a Hudson Super-Six, was hit by that of the defendant, who was driving recklessly. The plaintiff had received severe cuts and bruises and nervous strain, from which she had not yet fully recovered. The damages asked for were as follows: $948.68 for repairs to the car, $215 doctors' bills and $1,500 compensation.

Miss Calla Lecker (Mrs. Dobell), the plaintiff, and the first witness, was then sworn in. The whole court immediately fell in love with her, she being distinctly beautiful. She gave about the same statement as her Counsel. She told what she had done to prevent the accident and what injuries she had received. Prior to the accident she had enjoyed perfect health. On being cross-examined, she stated that she was travelling at the rate of ten to twelve miles per hour. The question whether she was intoxicated or not was answered in the negative. The other occupants of the plaintiff's car were Mrs. Muriel Buchanan, Mr. John Coghlin and the well-known Frank Shaughnessy.

The second witness, Mr. Coghlin, was then called and he furnished valuable evidence. He told how he summoned Dr. Henry and called the Legare Garage for a relief crew. The third witness, Mrs. Muriel Buchanan, a rare type of blond beauty, was greatly moved by her position as a witness and shed considerable tears. She let out the fact that the Plaintiff's party were at Decary's. On being asked if she had any drinks she stated that she had had four of milk, and after the fourth she had stopped counting. She spoke in loving terms of "Francis" Shaughnessy, whom she said was a coachman. On being asked if there was anything in the milk, she replied there was a fly in it.

Mr. J. Long, a private detective, next took the stand. He had seen the defendant's car dashing along, but had not seen the accident actually happen. At this point Genest, one of the worthy jurymen objected to one of his confreres being asleep. Brown, a mechanic of Legare, then took the stand. The proof of the repair bill of $948.68 was established. Dr. Henry was the next witness. He gave evidence of the hurts of the plaintiff and the bill of $215. Dr. Macdonald, a nerve specialist, had to be called into consultation, and this worthy physician was the next witness. This completed the evidence of the plaintiff's witnesses, and a plea for nonsuit was overruled.

The witnesses for the defence then came forward. The first was a constable who got his so-called evidence mixed up and did not seem to know even where his own beat was. L. Cohen, a student, followed the constable, he had seen the accident from his own car but was unable to give exact evidence. Cyril Patrick Nolan, a husky waiter from Decary's, said that he had supplied the plaintiff's party with ten bottles of champagne, one of which broke. McCloskey, the bouncer at Decary's, was the next in the witness box. Messrs. Dobell and Younger were the two last witnesses and owing to the great length of the mock trial and to the apparent exhaustion of further points their evidence was slight. The trial terminated with the Judge's speech to

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Dear Sir,—

"The tumult and the shouting dies, the captains and the kings depart." Whereupon, Mr. Editor, I crave a few inches of your valuable space in order to answer the horde of blood-thirsty critics, who seem to have taken exception to my remarks anent the annoyance caused by the children sliding on the sidewalks of the Campus.

Just two remarks will suffice. In the first place all your correspondents, with the sole exception of "Pro Securitate," entirely misconstrued my meaning. In no part of my letter do I find advocated the exclusion of the children from the Campus. Such an infamous proposal would be indeed reprehensible. I merely asked for a slight measure of regulation and order. A few hours after this proposal appeared in print the University authorities saw fit to carry into effect the ideas embodied therein. This action speaks for itself. It was carried into effect, moreover, without in any way depriving us of the presence of these children, whose innocent laughter and bright smiling faces I appreciate as much as anyone. I may now sign myself in fact as well as in name, SECURITAS.

"FROM WHEAT TO FLOUR," BY ROBT. NELSON

are two flour mills and a saw mill there, but the inhabitants have a good time withal. The Milling Co. has built a memorial hall in memory of their employees who fell in the war.

The distribution of the flour is an intricate process. All orders are sent to the head office at Montreal and relayed to the other warehouses in London, Toronto and Ottawa and the mills. All supplies left after filling the orders at the mills are sent to the warehouses for storage. Shipments are sent to Europe on cable quotation.

The foreign trade is necessary to keep the mills running at full capacity. There is not enough demand in Canada to do this. Goods are sold to Holland at gulder quotation, to England, Denmark and Norway in sterling, Germany in marks, France in francs, and the weight per bag is computed carefully to agree with the standard weights used in those countries.

Mr. Nelson had a set of samples of all the different parts of the milling process, and these proved very interesting after the lecture. Mr. Nelson answered all questions in a very able manner, and all agreed that it was one of the best talks of the season. A vote of thanks was proposed by Tremaine. He made the old piano sound like three, and to complete the orchestra, the violinist wielded his bow with dextrous fingers and brought out a vast amount of music.

The music during the refreshments is one of the best features of the meetings, and this proved no exception.

the jury, after the last remarks of the counsel.

His lordship urged them to do their duty and that their decision had to be based on the broad principle that everyone was responsible for their acts toward others. He went over the facts of the case briefly.

Shortly afterwards Foreman Kavanagh announced that the unanimous decision of the jury was in favor of the plaintiff, most people believing that they were all captivated by her singular beauty.

HISTORIANS MET IN HALL LAST EVENING

Papers Read on Yellow and Black Races.

GOOD ATTENDANCE.

Followed By Interesting Discussion on Different Phases of Problem

The Historical Club met in Strathcona Hall last evening and was very well attended by an interested audience. The president, S. Murray, was in the chair, and papers by C. McKenzie and H. Cousens were given in connection with the Yellow Peril and the White and Black Races. These were followed by a comprehensive discussion, followed by refreshments.

The paper on the White and Black Races follows. If possible, the other paper will be published at a later date.

THE WHITE AND BLACK RACES.

Perhaps there is no question of greater interest to the student of history than that which deals with race problems. History is being studied from the viewpoint of race. Mr. Madison Grant in his book "The Passing of the Great Race" says in the preface, "European history has been written in terms of nationality and of language, but never before in terms of race; yet race has played a far larger part than either language or nationality in moulding the destinies of men. Race implies heredity, and heredity implies all the moral, social and intellectual characteristics and traits which are the springs of politics and government." This quotation is sufficient to show that an attempt is being made to study history from the standpoint of race.

The division of the race problem which this paper attempts to discuss is of no secondary importance. It ranks among the first because of the place it occupies in the natural interest of two of the leading nations of the world namely, Great Britain and the United States. Great Britain is engaged with the situation in Africa and the problem is by no means an easy one to solve. With the position in the United States we are all more or less acquainted.

Sufficient has been said to warrant the greatness of this question, and to show the futility of attempting to deal with it in all of its phases of both nations, in such short space as this paper must of necessity be. Much has been written on both sides of the question in the two countries mentioned above, so it was thought advisable to deal only with the problem as it presents itself to one of these countries, and the one in the United States was chosen.

It is assumed that everybody has a knowledge of the importation of the negro into the United States from Africa, the conditions of slavery which led to the Civil War and its results. The supporters of the Northern States held the view that the negro slave was an unfortunate cousin of the white man, deeply tainted by the tropical sun and denied the blessings of Christianity and civilization but when freed from the bond of slavery, and given the opportunities afforded by Christianity and civilization, the question of the negro would be finally settled. For a little more than half a century they have been free, and the privileges of civilization granted them, and although it is a short period when one speaks in terms of race development, yet the solution seems to be as distant as it was before they were granted their freedom.

Many reasons have been advanced to show the cause for this. A few of the reasons given are: First, sufficient time has not yet been given to them. Fifty or sixty years in race development are but as a day or two in the life of a man. Secondly, that the history of their race shows that they have not been a progressive people hence the ability to make advancement is dormant. Thirdly, they are an inferior race to the white and although given every opportunity will never reach the same standard as the white man. These reasons are but few of many that might be given, but they may prove sufficient to warrant an investigation into the psychological capacity of these people.

Mr. F. Manetta after a long study of the negro children asserts: Mentally the negro is inferior to the white. Negro children are sharp, intelligent and full of vivacity, but on approaching the adult period a gradual change sets in. The intellect seems to become clouded, animation giving place to a sort of lethargy, briskness yielding to indolence. "The mental constitution of the negro is very similar to that of the child. Normally he is good natured and cheerful, but subject to sudden fits of emotion and passion during which he is capable of doing acts of singular atrocity." These statements may be sufficient to give us an idea of the mental make-up of the negro, though other ethological characteristics will be referred to as

THE MECCA OF ARTISTS OF SELF DEFENCE

Boxers Congregate in Molson Hall.

LIVELY TIME.

Advanced Class at 5.15 and Novices at 8.15.

The disciples of the great Marquis of Queensberry last evening held their annual exercises in honor of their patron saint. At 5.15 the 33rd degree members of the order went through the mystic ceremonial, leaving out none of the time-honored rites and arm-wavings so brimful of meaning to the initiated. The novices at 8.15 visited the shrine which is situated in Molson Hall, and were instructed in the somewhat intricate movements of the body which it behooves every true follower of the great nobleman to master.

A full dress ceremony at the McGill lodge of this illustrious order is always impressive. It has to be seen to be appreciated, and once seen it is never forgotten. The graceful postures of the members is something to charm the eye of the beholder, while his ear is continually on the alert waiting for the sound of the high priest's voice to break the awful silence of the assembly. The high priest is known in private life as Mr. McBratney, and as the graceful figures flit about gesturing towards each other entwining and disengaging, the high priest's voice is heard rumbling out the mysterious formula of the cult: "Solar plexus," "Jab," "uppercut," "right cross"—and again a heavy silence falls on the meeting as the members throw more and more energy into their devotions, until finally one after another in a frenzy of religious zeal finds himself groveling on the floor.

The "Daily" reporter who smuggled himself into these meetings has discovered that the 15th of December is a great fest day with the cult. It is the anniversary of one of the glorious victories of St. Thomas Burns, and will be observed in a fitting manner. In fact, the members are planning something spectacular. It is very hard for an outsider to witness these joy festivals, but to accommodate its readers, the "Daily" has discovered a method which they may use. If you wish to see something worth while, just fee the doorkeeper (obviated by presenting ticket) and softly but distinctly give the counter-sign, "Buckets of Blood."

We make further progress. We are now in a position to look more closely into the problem as it presents itself. To many people no difficulties present themselves as it resolves itself into narrow mindedness of ignorant people. But when one reads of lynchings and riots which result in the taking of human lives the question cannot be placed at one side so complacently. There must be a cause for this racial hatred if such we may term it.

Democratic theories of government in the United States in their modern form are based on dogmas of equality formulated some hundred and fifty years ago. Mr. Madison Grant says: "Philanthropy and noble purpose dictated the doctrine expressed in the Declaration of Independence, the document which to-day constitutes the actual basis of American institutions. The men who wrote the words 'we hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal' were themselves owners of slaves and despised the Indians as something less than human." It is quite obvious that these men were supporting an aristocratic democracy and they no doubt would be alarmed if they could see the clause "that all men are created equal" which has since been subtly falsified by adding the word "free" although no such expression is found in the original document.

There are also those who hold the view of the late Professor Royce of Harvard, who in his article on "Rare Questions and Prejudices" states: "Scientifically viewed these problems of ours turn out to be not so much problems caused by anything which is essential to the existence or to the nature of the races of men themselves. Our so-called race problems caused by our antipathies. Such antipathies will always play their part in human history. We can remember that they are childish phenomena in our lives, phenomena on a level with a dread of snakes or of mice, phenomena that we share with the cats and with the dogs not noble phenomena but caprices of our complex nature." According to Professor Royce the attitude of people who are in any way antipathized toward the black is no more rational than that of a woman who shrieks, jumps on a chair and gathers her skirts about her ankles, because a mouse happens to run across the floor, or the dread of snakes which is inherent in most women and in many men. What might be termed by many a deep rooted instinct, he considers a caprice. (To be continued.)

SCHEDULE FOR SECOND ROUND OF BASEBALL

Seven Teams Are Still in the Running.

SHARP RIVALRY.

Arts '21 Defeats Dent. '24 in Final Game of First Round.

Arts '21 forced Dent. '24 out of the running for the Inter-class Indoor Baseball championship, when they defeated them by a score of 12-9 yesterday.

The game commenced in the High School gym. at 6 p.m. The Dentists won the toss and took the field. Two Arts men crossed the plate in the first inning, and their opponents were unable to come back with more than one little one in their half. The Seniors hit consistently and safely during the following three innings, and ran up a total of eight runs, while the Freshmen, in spite of a sharp rally in the third, only chalked up two more to their score. The fifth and sixth innings saw some good baseball, each side adding one to their totals. In the seventh inning the Arts men led off with a series of well placed hits and added the necessary three runs. Taking the field too confidently with a lead of eight, they were taken totally by surprise when their rivals came back with the heaviest hitting of the game. The Dentists knocked in five runs before the Arts Seniors regained control. They had, however, rallied too late. After some close play at the plate, the Arts men got the last Dentist, and the game ended, 12-9 in favor of Arts '21.

In the field, the teams showed up equally well. Hebert disheartened the Dentists with a number of sensational catches. The Arts battery was the more effective, and, with the exception of the final inning, held the losers to scattered hits. The consistent hitting of the Arts men was largely responsible for the result.

The teams lined up as follows:
Arts '21 Dent. '24
Borden..... Moore
Kern..... Kindstein
Pratt..... Hershorn
McCall..... Charland
Symonds..... Kee
Farthing..... Higgins
Hebert..... Toker
Common..... Scott
Rosen..... Topitsky

Spare..... Goldman

This game completes the first round of the inter-class schedule. The second round will be played off as follows:

14—Law '21 vs. Comm. '22.
17—Meds. '24 vs. Arts '21.

BASKETBALL SEASON WILL START TO-DAY

Every College Team on the Floor.

FIVE GAMES.

Double-Header With Central "Y" at 8.15 in Molson Hall.

Basketball gets away to a fast start this evening when all of the college teams will be seen in action in the opening of the City League series. Two games will be played in Molson Hall, and they should be the attraction for a crowd that will tax the building to its capacity. The other games will be played away from home.

The games at Molson Hall consist of a double-header with the Central "Y" quintettes. The Drummond Street outfits are going at a fast clip, and the college teams will have to show mid-season form to start the season with victories. However, McGill has the benefit of good coaching, and they should be able to hold their own against the best shown by the other clubs.

The first game of the double-header in the Molson Hall will commence at 8.15 o'clock to-night, when the Intermediate "A's" meet the Central "Y" Intermediates. The following men will probably represent McGill: Trupel, James, Starke, Blumenstein, Hilton, Boucher.

The Senior game will follow at the close of the match. It is to be the match of the evening, and will doubtless draw a large number of Rooters. A general admission of 25c will be charged.

The following men have been chosen to represent the Seniors: Crain, Brown, Parlow, McPhail, Fitzgerald, Marsh Kern. It is expected that the following intercollegiate men will also occupy the floor for a part of the time: Lou Kern, Kemp, Hay, Laishley, Little. This will be the first opportunity many of the students will have of seeing their intercollegiate team in action.

Section "B" of the Intermediate team meets the National A.A.A. in the Nationals' gym. at 8.15 p.m. This team is to be chosen from: Greenblatt, Schwartzman, Caldwell, Moore, Tinkers, Clarke, McCaw. They will meet at the Union at 7.15.

At seven p.m. the representatives of the Junior "A" will meet at the Molson gym, and will then proceed to the Victoria gym, where they will play Westmount A.A.A. at 8.15.

The Junior "B" squad will meet the M.A.A.A. at the latter's building on Peel Street, the game to commence at eight-fifteen.

LORD NOVAR.

Will Lord Novar be the title taken by Sir R. C. Munro-Ferguson, who is raised to the peerage on the occasion of his relinquishing the Governor-Generalship of Australia. It was as "young Novar" he was popularly known in Scotland 35 years ago, when he entered political life.

His family has two centuries of close associations with Raith, near Kirkcaldy, for it was Sir Ronald's soldier grandfather who by his marriage brought the Novar estate in Ross-shire (as well as the name Munro) into the family, but Lord Raith is one of the titles held by the Earl of Leven and Melville.

At any rate, Lord Novar would be a picturesque title for a picturesque personality.—London Chronicle.

LAST GAME WITH M.S.C. IS TO-NIGHT

Laurentian Baths To Be Scene of Double-Header.

IN PINK OF CONDITION.

Last McGill Appearance in Senior Series—Will Show Keen Competition.

To-night at 8.15 at the Laurentian Baths, McGill will play her last senior water-polo games of the season, when they meet the Montreal Swimming Club at their home tank.

The first game will be between the Intermediate teams of both clubs, and which undoubtedly will furnish much excitement, since the McGill boys have been working hard of late to get into condition, that they may offset their recent defeat by this squad a few weeks ago.

The Senior game will also be of no small interest. Since we last met the St. Helen's Island players our team has been straining every effort under Coach Vernot to develop team play. This was fully evident last week when the Red and White representatives won the Canadian Aquatic Polo Championship from the M.A.A.A. To-night's game, although the last in the Senior Series, will not alter our right of the cup, since we have won every game of the season. Both the Senior teams will have Olympic champions to play for them, Vernot for the students, and "Bert" Schneider for the home team.

Tickets will be on sale at the Laurentian Baths to-night at 50c, and the executive would like to point out that the "Laurentian" affords plenty of room for spectators. If every Rooter able to attend these matches will turn out, the teams will consider it no small favor, as they certainly find their support of much advantage.

Intermediate line-up:

MEDICINE '24 TO VISIT BORDEAUX

A Pleasant Afternoon Spent Within the Portals of Crime.

Yesterday afternoon a party of thirty-five Meds. left on the first tour of inspection of Bordeaux Jail. The trip was a great success and everybody agreed that they had never spent a more exciting or instructive afternoon as that which they spent exploring the corners of that modern structure where criminals are kept in confinement.

The captain of the guard conducted the party through every portion of the immense building, explaining the work that the prisoners were doing at the time. Among other things, the students were shown and inspected the workrooms, powerhouse, solitary confinement cells, the death cell, the action of the scaffold, the bakery, barber shop, library, chapels, laundry, the electric control system of locks, and numerous other departments equally interesting. The next group, consisting of men from Med. '24, will leave at 1.30 on Thursday afternoon.

The Romance Of The Arts Building

(By BORAX.)

The success of the recent campaign will bring about many startling changes in the University; changes for the better, it is to be hoped, however rude and startling to the conservative mind. Of late the tongue of rumour has been rife in stating that a considerable portion of the money realized will be devoted to a complete renovation of the interior of the old Arts Building.

Future students will little realize what they have missed when they wander through the spacious and up-to-date halls of the Arts Building of the future. For the records of half a century of student predecessors cut deeply into desk and form will have been effaced by the hand of the builder. This thought touched one of those who has been privileged to bask in these shadows of reminiscent antiquity so deeply that a few days ago he took note-book in hand and sallied forth to wrest the secrets of preceding generations from the hacked and battered desks reposing in the stygian class-rooms that many know so well.

After satisfying a most vigilant representative of Janus that he was not a member of the Overcoat Thieves' Union he was allowed proceed on his way. He had expected disappointment, but the first discovery was of a most startling nature. Could it be true? Yes, carving cannot lie, for there in inch-high letters was engraved the name of one who holds honoured rank among the professorate. A quarter of a century ago he sat at this very desk surrounded by his class mates. Perhaps the propositions of worthy master Euclid wearied him—such things are not unheard of—then came the idea of perpetuating a name as yet unknown. The treasured pen-knife and a few hours of subdued scratching, and there it stands to this day. We hope he will deal lightly with any ardent freshman caught red-handed in the act of servile imitation.

Our friend passed on between the rows of forms. Forgotten names met his eye, carved in so deeply that in some cases the knife has eaten through a good inch and a-half of stout oak—but mere names with no meaning and no associations. Two names on adjacent desks brought him back with a start to the old days of intercollegiate football on the campus. Two names, half effaced by the persistent elbows of succeeding generations — "Pud" Argue, and there a little further on—"Chuck" Waterous. Memories of the grid-iron heroes of the past.

His mind became interested in matters chronological. Arts '88 he saw, and then Arts '83. Further back he could not go than this. Arts '65 looked tempting indeed, but it bore signs of being the work of a recent hand, whose owner had pessimistic visions of a long wait for his degree.

Designs of a more or less artistic nature met his eye. In most cases the ancient wielders of the knife had divided their works of genius into two classes—venerable gentlemen with side whiskers, representing the genus prof. to the undergraduate mind, and, secondly, fanciful creations of ideal types of feminine beauty, varying all the way from the Gibson Girl to the spinster type per se. Under one very appealing bas-relief a cynical stude with a gall of unrequited love in his heart had scratched the words "R. V. C. perhaps." Pained, our inquirer turned away.

Next came the turn of a room devoted from time immemorial, chiefly to the pursuit of the classics. Latin and Greek appear to have the faculty of arousing all the savage instincts latent in man, for here personalities of a most virulent nature were exchanged between what appeared to be succeeding members of freshman and sophomore years. The brain of one poor fellow must have snapped at last under these trying conditions, for our ever sympathetic investigator found in a dark corner a sad example of a lapse of memory. Too much delving into classic tomes had made him think that he himself had assumed the mantle of the celebrated gentleman who divided all Gaul into three parts. Thus he signed himself, "J. Caesar Arts '62 B.C.," a kinsman, perhaps of one Julius Blockhead, whose signature was found in an adjacent room.

Our hero was surprised and grieved at the effects of Moral Philosophy. On entering the lair of Ethics and Epistemology he expected to find the surfaces of the desks in a state of reverend and unscarred preservation. But no, here was a group of most fascinatingly designed young ladies—but attired, alas, in costumes more suited to the boards of what our local journalists are pleased to call the St. Urbain Street playhouse, than for the dangerously chilly corridors of the Arts Building.

And now his heart became heavy with the subtle evidences of tragedy bobbing up on every side. Tombstone and grass-grown graves with the occupants' names beneath. Words such as these inscribed on the tottering headstones, "Kicked out at last," and "Hic Jacet Dogie Mortuus, April, 1912." A lump rose in his throat, but worse was yet to come. There beneath his eyes were three words which wrung his anguished heart, "Gott Strafe Bacon." He, too, had suffered and could sympathise.

He passed on. Still names and more names, with a fresh sprinkling of newcomers of the class of twenty-four. There was a name carefully transliterated into Greek, so that its secret should only be yielded up to him who possessed classic learning. Here in clear-cut capitals the moniker of a man celebrated years before by admiring class mates as a "woman hater." Irony of ironies, vandal hand had prefixed the title "Miss."

Yet through all the grim allusions to exams and failures, and through all the hosts of names there shone here and there the clear flame of forgotten romance. What co-educational intimacy could have inspired the plaintive, "Becky dear," and then below it, in a small, neat feminine hand, the single word "Horatio," followed by two marks of exclamation. Who was the agonized Horatio, and whose the tender hand who years ago admired him so intensely that she might not write his name without these signs of her esteem? But the most passionate appeal appeared deep-cut into the top of a desk in the very front row. Just two words, "My Darling." He of the note-book gazed at them long with tear-dimmed eyes, and in his mind there rose the vision of a timid maid who shyly scratched these symbols as she gazed with awe-struck wonder at the handsome Roman nose of the very latest in additions to the staff, who stammered and blushed his way through his first lecture.

The head of the seeker after knowledge was sunk deep in thought as he descended to the hall below, and absent-mindedly donned someone else's brand-new fur coat. "Yes," he murmured to himself as he quickened his shambling pace to a run, "Yes, there are indeed many things worth picking up in the Old Arts Building."
